What in the world does the word venal have to do with bribery?

It's my way of summing up the demeaning, petty, nasty, and personal nature of your post -- without having to use four words.

If you want to judge whether Kerry is "equipped to understand science," 'suggest you look at the legislation he has introduced . . . and perhaps read his book.

It is you who have crossed the line, my friend, by citing a 44-year-old college grade . . . and by personal attacks on people.

'Suggest a Passover/Maundy Thursday commitment to rationality and civility, and in that I'd be quite pleased to join you.
